Norman Tobin has resigned as President due to personal reasons and a reduced involvement with Go. I am sure that we all have appreciated his contribution to British Go. Alex Rix has accepted the role of acting President.

The Japan Festival was a big success for Go. Over the course of the weekend, David Ward and companions showed over 500 people how to play. As a follow up to this, the CLGC organised an open evening with a beginners' tournament. Sixteen took part and the three winners were: Barry Lee, Donald Biggs and John Levy. At the same time, Shutai Zhang played simultaneous games against experienced players (and won most of them).

The 2nd International Pair Go Tournament is to be held in Tokyo in November. The format is for male-female pairs to play Rengo (team) matches. About 5 European countries have been invited to send teams. It was decided that the ladies should compete for the place, and the winner would choose a partner. Consequently, our representatives will be Sue Paterson and Jim Barty. Norman Tobin was invited to attend as non-playing captain.

The following information is from Bob Bagot, the Book Distributor:
There probably will be a book and equipment stall at the Wessex and Birmingham tournaments.
Now available is the latest Ishi Press book in their excellent Fuseki series. It is called "The 3-3 point - Modern Opening Strategy" by Cho Chikun. It features examples from about 100 of Cho's games. It is £6.00 by hand or £6.90 by post.
Also available are current and back copies of "Go Moon", a magazine in English that presents game records of top amateur and professional games. The format varies from 48 to 72 pages and numbers 7 through to 19 are available at £2.50 each (post free).
